

Presentation outline

This will likely be the hardest part of the course for many of you (though some of you do love to talk. Haha). But relax! You already did the hard part. Now you are just going to talk about it with some friendly faces. Use the outline below to create a “cheat sheet” for yourself during presentations, and I will give you each a chance to practice with just me and a friend of your choice prior to the big day!

- What genres did you study this semester?
- Which ones did you like and why?
- Which ones did you not like so much, and why?
- Why did you include photographs (other than “because it was in the assignment.” How did the photography components of this course help you learn about this skill that you hope to use later in life? Or after this course, do you no longer want to pursue photography? Talk about these ideas.)
- What were the challenging parts of the writing process, and how did you work through them?

Again, you guys have done great this semester, and the hard work is just about complete. This day should be fun and you should be ready to share with people attending the event about what you did, what you learned, and what you thought about it all!