

Introduction to biographies

This unit will introduce us to biographies (and autobiographies, but we will talk more about those later). Today, I want you to do some research on a celebrity of your choosing, and just tell me about that person in a piece of writing. I am giving you no direction on this on purpose. I will not assign a length. I will not include an outline or a rubric. Just tell me about the person you researched.

This assignment will serve as the seed for a later biography that you will write, but I want to see what you think is important before we start digging into the anatomy of a biography or an autobiography. Since this is only a draft, you can type it in a Google Doc, or you can simply print this page and handwrite it below.
